If all parents were wise enough all children would be good.

How many men begin economizing by cutting down their tobacco bill?

Every human soul has a work to perform in life or it would not be here.

Men are just as vain as women are and they haven't half as much excuse for it.

Half the trouble in the world is only imaginary and part of the rest never happens.

No matter what else a man refuses his wife he is always willing to give her advice.

It is a hard job to live by the golden rule if you have to trade horses for a living.

When a girl is a beauty and 18 she looks on the rest of the world with pitying scorn.

Women are not the only people who look in mirrors and get struck on what they see there.

Some people work harder trying to have a good time than the ones who are hustling for a living.

Many a man makes his wife think he is the personification of wisdom who can not fool anybody else.

A woman thinks there is nothing so stupid as a conversation between two men who are not talking business.

Cheerfulness is a virtue that makes everybody popular who possesses it and there ought to be schools to teach the how of it.

No man has a right to say that he stays out of church because there are so many sinners in it, for he is staying where there are so many more.

We all love to see our neighbor act generous and charitable, it is so much comfort to see the other fellow paying out his money in a good cause.

The man whose chief ambition is to whittle a pine stick ought to be very careful to get a wife whose main joy in life is to bend over a wash board.

Sometimes a man calls his wife so many sweet things during the honeymoon that he uses up all his store and has nothing left but grunts for the long following years.

The woman who never stops talking may not think she is doing wrong, but does not the Bible say something about letting your conversation be "yea, yea and nay, nay?"

You may not be able to leave your children any money when you die, but you surely can if you try to leave them some "raising." A proper bringing up will do them more good than phyllophary and an undisciplined character or empty head.

The following item of interest we clip from the Brunswick: Miss Minnie Davis, who has been teaching in the schools at Gaudalajara, Old Mexico, for several years, arrived in Brunswick last Friday night. Miss Davis will not return to Gaudalajara this fall, but will take a rest of about a year, the first vacation she has had in eight years. According to the Star, C. C. Hardesty, rural carrier on route 2 out of Mendon, had another wreck Thursday. While near the residence of John Cunningham the neck-yoke broke and the buggy tongue came down, frightening the team so that they ran away. Chauncey and his brother, Marion, who is his substitute, and who happened to be along, turned the team into a fence and jumped out, Chauncey bruising a leg and Marion losing a watch in the mix-up. The principal damage was a broken tongue, a hole in the dash-board and a horse out on the wire fence.

Frank Northcott the junior editor of the Sumner Star, "sneaked off" and got married, Sunday, August 9, 1908, and the following is the tale of woe he told about in his and dad's paper last week:

Frank Northcott, of the Star force and Miss Lola Riggins of this place were married at the M. E. parsonage in Mendon last Sunday evening. Rev. Purdue officiating. It was intended to keep the wedding a secret for a week and spring a surprise on our friends, but both the reporter at Chillicothe and the parson at Mendon, who promised secrecy, had to either leak or burst, and as neither of them burst, the fact of the marriage was generally known early Monday morning. Congratulations, eh? Ah, thank you. Our wife says if she is ever so unfortunate as to be married the second time she will not stand for a Jeers & Saw-buck or out-of-town preacher tying the knot, that it must be a home minister, and we see where she's right. Everybody come and see us.

It required the work of a physician to remove the hook, but Virgil will be all right after hobbling a few days.
